COACHES

LUCIUS BENJAMIN (LUKE) APPLING

Luke Appling, Hall of Fame shortstop, was recently voted the greatest White Sox player of all time. The popular Georgian, 63, spent only one season in the minor league, then 20 years with the White Sox. Twice he led the American League in hitting. In 1936 his mark of .388 was the highest ever by a shortstop and he repeated as champ in 1943 with .328. He played a total of 2,218 games at shortstop and ten times led the A. L. shortstops in assists. He holds A. L. records for most putouts, assists and chances by a shortstop. In addition he holds 10 Sox club records.

JOHN FRANKLIN SAIN

Johnny Sain, 52, is considered one of the most able pitching instructors in baseball. He was a great pitcher in his playing days, four times equalling or topping the 20-victory mark while with the old Boston Braves. He pitched in six World Series and two All Star games. As a coach with the New York Yankees, Minnesota Twins and Detroit Tigers he never failed to develop a 20-game winner. He joined the White Sox staff in late September, 1970.

JOSEPH LONNETT

Joe Lonnett, 44, is a newcomer to the White Sox coaching staff. He enjoyed a successful minor league career as a catcher starting with Vandergrist, Pa., in 1949 in the Middle Atlantic League and continuing to the majors with the Philadelphia Phillies. For the last six years he has served the Phillies as a scout.

LUIS ALVARADO

This 21-year old Puerto Rican is considered one of the finest fielding shortstops in baseball. In 1967, his first season of professional baseball, he tied for the Midwest League leadership in double plays by a shortstop with 60. In 1969 he was voted the Most Valuable Player in the International League when, with Louisville, he led the league in runs scored (89), in hits (166) and doubles with 30. He is right handed all the way.

MIKE ANDREWS

Originally a shortstop, Mike Andrews was switched to second base in 1966 with Toronto and quickly established himself as one of the best in the business. He hit 17 home runs last year for Boston, his career high. His defensive value is best indicated by the fact that in 1969, during the five weeks he was sidelined with an injury, the Red Sox dropped from three games behind the Orioles to 11 games back. He was a prep star in football, basketball and baseball and later was an All-American Junior College end at El Camino College before signing a pro baseball contract in 1962.

TOM BRADLEY

With only two years of experience in pro baseball this young right hander is given a good chance to win a starting job on the White Sox staff. He is a graduate of Falls Church, Va. high school. Planned to attend Wake Forest University but switched to Maryland and later hit a homer to defeat Wake Forest. Named to the All-Atlantic Coast Conference team in 1967-68. Turned pro in late May, 1969, after six months of military duty. In mid-August he was sent to San Jose where, the night after he completed another two weeks of military duty, he pitched a one-hitter, the lone hit being an infield dribbler by the first batter. He was moved up to Hawaii in late August that year and then to the Angels. Last year he worked his way up from El Paso to Hawaii to

CHARLES BRINKMAN

Although a light hitter, this youngster is considered an outstanding defensive catcher, a fine handler of pitchers and possessed of a strong, accurate arm. A graduate of Ohio State University (1966), he is a younger brother of shortstop Eddie Brinkman of Detroit. Scout Fred Shaffer signed him to a Lynchburg contract in 1966 and he has been in the Sox organization since, appearing briefly with the parent club in the last two seasons.

DENNIS DECK

This 21-year old left-hander was signed by Scout Bill Lentini after graduation from Magnolia (San Diego) high school in 1968. He spent the balance of that season with Appleton and the next year with Duluth in the Northern League. Last year he had an 8-9 record and an ERA of 3.07 at Appleton, striking out 124 men in 161 innings.

DON EDDY

This chunky 24-year old left-hander from Swaledale, Iowa, is considered one of the top pitching prospects in the White Sox organization. After making his pro debut in 1966 he spent the next year in military service, returning in '68 in time to take part in only three games. In '69 he compiled a record of 18-3 and an ERA of 1.81 as a starter at Appleton. Last year as a reliever at Tucson he had a 10-4 record and an ERA of 1.34. Brought up to the Sox at the season's end he posted a 2.31 ERA in 12 innings of work. He pitched in Venezuela during the winter.

TOM EGAN

This big (6-4, 218) right handed hitter, batted .520 in his senior year at El Rancho high school in Pico Rivera, Calif. In 1966 he led the Texas League catchers in fielding and played in the All-Star game. In '67 with El Paso he was named to the Class AA Western All-Star team. His first major league homer was on the final day of the 1968 season against Wilbur Wood of the White Sox. The next year he was sidelined most of the campaign after being hit in the right side of the jaw by an Earl Wilson pitch.

pro career in the Cleveland organization in 1958. In 1962 he was traded to the Senators, who sent him to the Yankees the next year. Hamilton, who stands 6-7, played two years of professional basketball with the old Minneapolis Lakers. He has a masters degree at Morehead State University (Kentucky) where he is an instructor in the off-season.

ED HERRMANN

In his second year in the major leagues in 1970 burly Ed Herrmann established himself as power hitter and capable receiver. In 96 games he batted a solid .283 and hit 19 homers. The Braves originally signed Herrmann back in 1964 right out of high school in San Diego. The Sox acquired him on Nov. 30, 1964, in the first year player draft. In 1967 while with Evansville of the Southern League, he led all catchers in put-outs, assists and fielding percentage. As a prep star Herrmann was all-league two years for Crawford High (San Diego), was team captain, Player of the Year, and led the league in home runs and RBIs. He is 24 years old.

JOEL HORLEN

The 1970 season was unqestionably the most frustrating of Joel Horlen's major league career. Not only was his record the poorest (6-16) but he had to undergo surgery on his right knee on Aug. 4 for removal of torn cartilage. He made a remarkably speedy recovery and was back in action on Sept. 7. A product of the Sox Farm system, Horlen has been a mainstay of the club's pitching staff since 1962. His finest season was 1967 when he posted a record of 19-7 and an earned run average of 2.06. Included among his victories was a no-hit masterpiece against Detroit. For six consecu-

PAT JACQUEZ

This husky right hander was one of the outstanding prep baseball players in California while attending Amos Alonzo Stagg high school at Stockton, where he still makes his home. Pitched two no-hit games in high school and in his senior year led Stagg to the Central California Conference championship, striking out 106 men in 77 innings. Was named the Conference's Player of The Year. Once struck out 19 batters in a seven-inning Babe Ruth League game and pitched a perfect game in Legion competition. Has played professionally four years.

GERALD "JERRY" JANESKI

Jerry Janeski became a member of the White Sox pitching staff quite by accident last spring. Originally the Sox had obtained Billy Farmer from the Red Sox in the deal that sent Gary Peters to Boston. Farmer reported with a sore arm and was returned to Boston, which club gave the Sox several names to choose a replacement from. They chose Janeski and the big right hander wound up with a 10-17 record and was the busiest man on the pitching staff with the exception of Tommy John, working a total of 206 innings. Janeski was born at Pasadena, Calif., and was an all-league selection in baseball at LaSalle high school there. He later attended California State of Los Angeles. With Louisville in 1969 he led the International League in complete games and tied for the league lead in victories with 15. He was married last summer.

"ROOKIES": A rookie is a player not more than 45 days on a major league roster during the 25-man roster cutdown dates or who has not exceeded 90 times at bat or 45 innings pitched if short of 45 days.

TOMMY JOHN

Tommy John has been a workhorse on the White Sox pitching staff since 1965 but last season was by far his busiest. He toiled a total of 271 innings while compiling a 12-17 record and an ERA of 3.25. He also equalled his best previous strikeout mark by whiffing 138 batters. Although the tall, handsome "T. J." is considered one of the league's best left-handers, he has shown a won-loss profit in only three of his six seasons with the Sox, a development brought about by injuries and military service. In 1968, for example, he had a record of 10-5 and an ERA of 1.98 when he suffered a severe shouder injury in an altercation with Dick McAuliffe in Detroit in August and was through for the year. He came back strong in '69 however. John was an outstanding athlete at Terre Haute, Ind. Gerstmeyer high school and was No. 1 student in his graduating class of 230. He's one of baseball's better golfers. He was married last summer.

BART JOHNSON

An arm injury, suffered when he slipped on the mound in the rain during his first spring training start, slowed the development of this promising right hander but he came back strong in the late stages of the season. He was assigned to Mobile and, after appearing in four games there, was moved up to Tucson where he had a record of 6-3 and an ERA of 2.80. He appeared in 18 games for the White Sox and had a 4-7 mark and an ERA of 4.80. In 1969 he was the strikeout king of the Midwest League with an even 200 whiffs. As a prep pitcher at Torrance, Calif. high he won 20 while losing only two and was 23-2 in American Legion

JOHN (JAY) JOHNSTONE

In 1969, his first full season in the major leagues, "Jay" Johnstone established himself as a good left-handed hitter and a fine defensive outfielder. He batted at a .270 clip that year with 10 homers and 59 RBIs. One of his homers was a grand slam against the Sox in Chicago. He led the International League in sacrifice hits in 1966 with 24 and led the American League the next season with 18 although he played in only 41 games. He was graduated from Edgewood high school (West Covina, Calif.) and was an all-star selection in baseball, football and basketball.

DUANE JOSEPHSON

After being plagued by an injury jinx throughout his major league career, "Josie" remained healthy in 1970 and enjoyed his finest season, batting .316 in 96 games. The previous year he missed most of the season with a blood clot in his right shoulder which for a time threatened to end his career. Josephson broke into pro ball in 1964 and the very next year was the All-Star catcher in the Southern League at Lynchburg. In 1966 he was the All-Star catcher

PAT KELLY

This fleet outfielder acquired by trade from Kansas City figures to add some much needed speed to the 1971 White Sox. The Minnesota Twins signed him originally after an exciting career at Philadelphia's Simon Gratz high school where he starred in baseball, football and basketball. He remained in the Twins' organization until Kansas City selected him in the fourth round of the expansion draft. In his first major league season, despite frequent terms of military duty, he batted .264 and stole 40 bases. He was third in the voting by The Sporting News for rookie-of-the-year honors. He stole 34 bases in 1970. Four brothers also have excellent athletic backgrounds, including Leroy Kelly, the Cleveland Browns' running back who twice has won the National Football League rushing honors and was scoring champion in 1968.

BOBBY KNOOP

This popular veteran compiled a fielding average of .982 to enhance his reputation as one of the best defensive second basemen in the American League. He seldom hits for high average but has good power. He was named second baseman on the American League's Gold Glove all-star fielding team in 1966-67-68. In four different years he led all second basemen in double plays, and he also holds the record for most double plays by a second baseman in one game with six on May 1, 1966. Knoop was originally signed by the Milwaukee Braves' organization but in '63 he was drafted by the Angels from Denver. He is 32.

ARTHUR KUSNYER

This peppery, aggressive youngster is considered an outstanding catching prospect with a fine arm. A former Kent State (Ohio) University athlete, Kusnyer broke into pro ball with the Sarasota White Sox in 1966. The 25-year old native of Akron, O. served as regular catcher for Appleton of the Midwest League in 1967-68 and saw action in 129 games for Lynchburg in '69. Last year he batted .250 at Mobile and saw duty in four games for the White Sox at the close of the season. Kusnyer starred at Buchtel High (Akron), being named All-State catcher and his team's most valuable player.

DAVID LEMONDS

This young left-hander has only three years of professional experience but is considered a top prospect. He is a graduate of Garinger high school (Charlotte, N.C.), playing basketball and baseball and captained the baseball team in his senior year. Attended University of North Carolina. In 1965 he helped pitch Charlotte Post #9 to the Legion championship and in '67 pitched the Boulder, Colo. Collegians to the National Baseball Congress championship. He appeared in two games for the Chicago Cubs in 1969 and last year struck out 106 men for Tacoma of the Pacific Coast league.

RONALD LOLICH

Ron Lolich is a young outfielder with power. He hit 26 home runs for Lynchburg in 1969 and belted 16 last season at Tucson. He is a cousin of Mickey Lolich, Detroit's star pitcher. He was signed by Scout Dario Lodigiani, former Sox infielder, in 1965, when he batted .288 for Sarasota in his rookie season. He is 24 years old and is from Portland, Ore., where he was a prep star. In 1965 he captained Portland's Central Catholic High team and was selected to the All-State team.

JAMES MAGNUSON

This big left-hander came up to the White Sox from Mobile midway through the 1970 season and pitched creditably thereafter, despite a 1-5 record. He hails from Marinette, Wisconsin, and attended Oshkosh State University. He broke into the White Sox system with Appleton in 1966. His best season was 1967 with Lynchburg when he had a record of 6-2 and an ERA of 2.56.

AL MARISCAL

This 28-year old Mexican left-hander was drafted by the White Sox last winter after being personally scouted in Mexico by Roland Hemond and George Noga, who were impressed with his talents. He has spent his entire career in Mexican leagues with the exception of six games late last season with Spokane of the Pacific Coast league, where he won two and lost none.

CARLOS MAY

This 22-year old youngster achieved one of the most courageous comebacks in the history of sports in 1970. In August of 1969 he was on his way to winning Rookie-of-the-Year honors when a mortar misfire during Marine training duty at Camp Pendleton, Calif. cost him most of his right thumb. It was feared his career was ended but, after long hospitalization and repeated surgery and skin grafts, he returned to action in spring training. Although right handed, he learned to throw again with speed and accuracy. He also batted a robust .285 with 28 doubles, four triples, 12 homers and 68 RBIs. He underwent an additional skin graft during the winter which should make him even more effective. Manager Chuck Tanner plans to switch him from the outfield to first base in '71. Carlos looked good in a brief trial at the position late last year.

LEE MAYE

This 36-year old veteran, secured late last season from the Washington Senators, provides the White Sox with insurance both in the outfield and infield. Basically an outfielder, Lee can play in the infield if necessary. His bat is more than adequate, as is attested by a lifetime major league average of .275. His major league career embraces stretches with the old Milwaukee Braves, Houston, Cleveland and Washington. His hobby is collecting recordings and he is noted for his entertaining talents.

TOM McCRAW

Versatile Tom McCraw had a disappointing season in 1970 but is determined to make a comeback this season, his 12th in the White Sox organization. In 1962 his batting average of .326 was tops in the American Association. The following year he was hitting at a .282 clip when he was brought up to the Sox after Joe Cunningham suffered a severe shoulder injury. He hit. 254 that year and came back with a mark of .261 in '64, his best performance as a major leaguer. He can play either first base or the outfield.

CHARLES McKINNEY

"Rich" McKinney is considered one of the bright prospects in the White Sox organization. Originally a shortstop, he will be tried in the outfield this spring because of his potent bat. Last year at Tucson, only his third season in pro ball, he hit .303. In brief trials with the Sox he hit only .168 but in each of his last four games he homered. He was graduated from Miami, O. East High in 1965 and from Ohio University in 1969. At Ohio U. he hit .392 and .339 with 17 homers in his final two years and was All-Conference shortstop both seasons. As a prep he captained his football and basketball teams and made the All-Star cage team.

BILL MELTON

Bill Melton, in his second full season with the White Sox, established a new club record by whacking 33 home runs. This feat topped the old mark of 29 set by Gus Zernial in 1950 and equalled the next year by Eddie Robinson. Twenty-two of Bill's homers were hit in White Sox Park, topping the former record of 21 set by Zeke Bonura in 1934. These accomplishments helped erase the memory of a horrible start during which he made 10 errors in the first 24 games and suffered a broken nose when he lost a pop foul in the lights at Baltimore. Melton was switched to right field later on but was restored to third when Chuck Tanner took over as manager for the final fortnight of the season. Melton's defensive play was almost flawless and occasionally brilliant after his return to the hot corner. Melton, 25, didn't play

RICHARD MOLONEY

Rich Moloney starred in 1969 as Appleton's ace bullpen artist as that club won the Midwest League championship. He had a spectacular 1.83 earned run average in 35 mound appearances. Last season was split between Tucson and Mobile and he joined the Sox in time to pitch one scoreless inning in relief. Scout Bill Kearns signed the tall right-hander from Brookline, Mass. high school, where he was an all-league quarterback in football. He is 20 years old.

RICHARD MORALES

Rich Morales, a versatile utility infielder, came up with so many fine defensive plays in clutch situations last year that someone dubbed him "a thinking man's ball player." 1970 was his first full season with the Sox although he has been in the organization since 1963. He was a prep star at Daly City, Calif. high school and then attended San Mateo College. He suffered torn knee ligaments in a collision in 1966 but made a strong comeback.

John Purdin was signed originally by the Los Angeles Dodgers on a fan's tip concerning this U.S. Airman who was starring at Weisbaden, Germany. In his first pro season he was 14-3 at Salisbury, 0-1 at Spokane and 2-0 with the Dodgers, including a two-hit shutout. He spent the entire '68 season with the Dodgers, appearing in 35 games, winning two, losing three and compiling an ERA of 3.05. Last year with Spokane and Hawaii he had a record of 11-10 and an ERA of 3.05. Chuck Tanner, his manager at Hawaii, liked his looks so much he made the acquisition of Purdin one of his first moves as manager of the Sox.

ROBERT (ROE) SKIDMORE

This 1963 graduate of Eisenhower high school of Decatur, Ill., helped his team to the state baseball championship in his junior year. Later attended Millikin University, playing varsity baseball and basketball. Signed his first pro contract with Atlanta but was released and signed as a free agent by San Francisco in May, 1967. His best day in organized baseball was with Decatur in '67 when he went 6 for 7 and hit three home runs. In 1968 he led the Midwest League with 27 homers and 94 RBIs. In 1969 he made the Pacific Coast league All-Star team. Last year he batted .316 for San Antonio, his career high.

ROBERT SPENCE

Between injuries and calls to military duty, this promising young first baseman actually saw little service in his first three years in pro baseball. A former Santa Clara University star, he was the No. 1 draft choice of the White Sox in the free player draft in January, 1967. Last year he divided the season between Tucson and the Sox. He batted .304 in 25 games for Tucson and .223 in 46 games in the American League. He hit four homers for the Sox. The 6-4, 205 pounder is 25 years old.

WALTER WILLIAMS

This stumpy little outfielder whose middle name is "hustle" is one of the most popular White Sox of recent vintage. After a sensational campaign in 1969 when he batted .304, Walt slumped badly last year to .251 with only three homers and 15 runs batted in. However, he never lost his popularity. In 1965 as a Cardinal farmhand, Williams led the Texas League in batting with a mark of .330 and he repeated as bat champion the next year as champ of the Pacific Coast league also with .330. He was born at Brownwood, Texas, and was originally signed to a pro contract by ex-White Sox pitcher Bill Wight. He was graduated from Galileo High (San Francisco) where he was a three-sport star. He also starred at City College of San Francisco where he was named on the All-Golden Gate conference team in 1963. He also played with the California State championship Legion team in 1962.

WILBUR WOOD

Knuckelballer Wilbur Wood has been the workhorse and the ace of the Sox bullpen for the last three years during which he has appeared in 241 games. His peak performance came in '68 when he set a league record by pitching in 88 games and compiling an ERA of 1.87. Last year in 77 games he had an ERA of 2.80. Wood was signed originally by the Red Sox in 1960 and in '64 he led the Pacific Coast league in complete games with 19. Pittsburgh acquired him that year and in '66 at Columbus he led the International League in shutouts with eight. The Sox purchased his contract in October of 1966. Some thought is being given to restoring him to a starting role on occasion.

NON-ROSTER PLAYERS INVITED TO CAMP

LEE RICHARD 11

The White Sox No. 1 draft choice last June. In his first season of pro baseball this 22-year old shortstop batted .300 in 13 games at Mobile, then moved up to Tucson, where he hit .285. Considered an exceptional prospect.

DOUG ADAMS
39

This 27-year old catcher suffered a broken arm last year that sidelined him for much of the season but he managed to hit .250 in 82 games with Tucson. He also can play the outfield.

MIKE HERSHBERGER
50

This veteran major league outfielder, 31, is with the White Sox as a free agent on a look-see basis. He played with the Sox in 1961-64. Last season he was with Milwaukee.

BILL ROBINSON
51

This 27-year old outfielder spent the 1967-8-9 seasons with the New York Yankees. Was with Syracuse in the International League last year, hitting .258. Can run and throw with the best. On Tucson roster.

DANNY MURPHY
56

Upon graduation from St. John's (Danvers, Mass.) prep in 1960 he was signed by the Cubs for a huge bonus. Never able to make the grade as an outfieder, the Sox turned him into a pitcher in 1966. With the Sox last year he pitched in 68 games.

FLOYD WEAVER
53

Weaver was brought up by the Sox from Tucson in late May of 1970. In 31 games for the Sox, he had a 1-2 record.

RICH HINTON
55

A left handed pitcher who starred for the University of Arizona. Turned pro in 1969. With Tucson last year he had a record of 10-12 and pitched outstanding ball in Florida Instructional Program last fall.

JIM GEDDES
60

This 21-year old right handed pitcher is a 1970 graduate of Ohio State University where he starred in baseball and basketball. In the Winter Instructional League he had a record of 3-3.

TERRY FORSTER
63

The big 18-year old left hander was the No. 2 draft choice of the Sox last June. With Appleton of the Midwest League he won six, lost one and had an ERA of 1.33.

HAL McCLAIN
65

Another 18-year old left hander pitcher. With Sarasota in his first season as a pro he compiled a record of 10-2 and an ERA of 1.30.

CECELIO ACOSTA
59

Right handed pitcher who has played in the Mexican leagues since turning pro in 1966. Last season with Jalisco he had a record of 9-3 and an ERA of 2.54. In 85 innings he struck out 99 and walked only 36.

SAM EWING
61

Sox number one choice in the secondary phase of the January draft. Left handed batter who led Southeast Conference at the U. of Tennessee last year.
